After School: A good after school program can turn the aimless hours after school into productive learning time. This will expose kids to new interests. We at AIMS concentrate on activities that have social and academic benefits while also building confidence and skills in all children. After school activities can help everyone in them work together, learn from each other, and build friendships.

The programs that we provide take steps so that your child has an equal opportunity to take part in these activities:

- Offer social time (and social learning)
- Provide mental stimulation.
- Instill confidence.
- Allow for creativity.
- Result in fun and enjoyment.

After school activities are a great way for students to participate in a safe and productive environment after school has ended. When the bell rings, it doesn't mean your child's day is over.

Boarding: The main aspect of boarding is that students quickly learn how to perform many domestic chores and complete school assignments by themselves. The boarding facility gains an edge over the day-scholars in enabling the children to grow into more confident, more responsible, more success-driven individuals.
